2026 Featured Artists

Dr. Austin Dean Ashford (he/him) - Literary Arts, Music, Spoken Word, Theater
aashford@flannerhouse.org @DrAustindeanashford www.austindeanashford.com

"I build worlds that remix the past and reimagine the future, using Hip Hop as both a heartbeat and a blueprint for liberation. I'm a playwright, performer, and musician who believes creativity is both protest and prayer, a way to survive and transform the world around us."

Dr. Ashford has written and performed award-winning solo shows and currently collaborates with local organizations like Flanner House and IF Theatre to mentor dozens of emerging Black artists in theatre, music, and storytelling. His goal is to build a sustainable creative empire that uplifts Black stories across stage, screen, and community. He aims to build a professional foundation that allows him to tour, produce, and publish at a higher level while continuing to mentor others.

Kenn.Wav (he/him) - Music
kennwav@gmail.com @kennn.wav

"My creative work blends gospel, soul, and R&B with contemporary and electronic influences, resulting in a sound that is both grounded and exploratory. Through every performance and project, my goal is to create work that is emotionally resonant, culturally rooted, and reflective of the vibrant communities that shaped me."

Kenn.Wav's musical collaborations have included Be. On It., Bashiri Asad, BL+K (Breon Lanier + Kenn), B. Slade, and Bluewater Kings. He has created and performed commissioned and featured pieces for organizations including Newfields, GANGGANG, and the Indiana Black Theatre Company. His goal is to strengthen the sustainability of his artistic practice by securing consistent opportunities for performances, commissions, and partnerships.

Auboni Essence (she/they) - Literary Arts, Spoken Word, Theater
bookingauboni@gmail.com @auboni\_essence

"I now have a repertoire of page poems, slam poems, short stories, and plays that connect with a diverse set of audiences. Today, I allow my pen to take me where it wants to go and I wrestle with the truths, the ideas, and the ideologies that present themselves to me. I carefully package them for others to see and stake my hope on them leaving inspired, delighted, and/or stimulated."

Recently, Auboni competed nationally with a slam poetry team, headlined That Peace Open Mic, and facilitated a 6-week youth poetry workshop and showcase. Auboni's goals include: Become a three-time published author (poetry book, short-story collection, and novel), win a Grammy for her poetry anthology album, and become a prominent arts and culture curator and educator in Indianapolis (and beyond!).

D'yshé Mansfield (she/they)- Music, Theater
dyshe.mansfield@gmail.com @dyshe.official

"I am a multihyphenate singer, songwriter, actress and performer committed to helping communities feel and heal through music and storytelling. While music allowed me to process emotion, theatre allowed me to create new worlds which proves to be helpful along my journey of sharing stories through song."

An Indianapolis native, D'yshé pursued training at American Musical and Dramatic Academy in New York City. She is actively performing at local venues, teaching with Asante Art Institute, directing and acting with local theatre companies, and working on a debut EP. D'yshé's goal is to build a multidisciplinary career that positions her for an EGOT (Emmy, Grammy, Oscar, Tony)-centering her work in music/vocal performance, theatre, and film. She aims to expand visibility, seek performance/tour opportunities, and strategically market herself as a singer, songwriter, and performer.
